View your character's skill, earnings and ISK balance on your taskbar. A simple list view or drill down on a system or an account or a character. Speed and stability improvements over the last few weeks, since version 1.5.4.1. New Eve Online SkillWatch Gadget! SkillWatch was being built in the beginning of December and it is now finally released: About SkillWatch SkillWatch is a simple tool that provides easy access to your character's skill progress and earnings as well as the item level for your ship, wallet balance and ISK earned through mining/marketing. The tool allows you to monitor your character's skill training progress and also views the total time spent in the skill queue, item level and wallet balance. The list view shows all accounts under one account list for quick access to progress status across your online persona. Check out the visual demonstration Description Main features Monitoring Toggle: Option to view skill progress per account, per character. Option to toggle on/off logging in/out (Window settings) Possibility to change the logout time limit Option to monitor item level (bonus applied) as well as wallet balance and ISK (to be implemented) Location: Allow configuring the location for the taskbar List or Drill Down: List-mode displays only a single column, providing the quick glance on the character's progress. Drill down-mode displays multi-columned table, allowing to view the skill queue by account, characters, toggling on/off the logging in/out of the players or drill down by account, character name, skill, reward, ISK, etc. Tracking Tooltips: The tooltips of the columns as well as the drill-down level(s) display the characters skill, ISK, rewards earned, items found and the total time spent in the queue for that particular skill. (already integrated) Drill-down Level: The drill-down level displays the grouped events which occurred within the timeframe of a skill, not within the complete skill queue. The taskbar window of the tool can be maximized to only display the active drill-down level. Gear Watch: Allow you to view the current level of a specific item level. Character Watch:

A researcher has discovered a new macro virus, discovered in an old drive. It apparently attacks e-mail client apps, and believes it is spreading via e-mail attachments. It's the same type of virus as "The Beast," which lives at least partially in "snake" files, but the new virus is spreading via more common file types like office.doc and.xls filetypes. A hunt is underway for a young woman who was caught and detained on suspicion of being a terrorist, after taking part in the annual Women's March in Washington DC. The twenty-two-year-old was approached by police last Thursday, and subsequently arrested on the grounds of suspicion that she was part of a terror cell. She had been on a week-long trip from Belgium to the US, and was due to return to Belgium. However, she spent the following day in a Texas airport, getting drunk with a friend, before returning to Belgium without boarding her
